

Myrto Dagkouli-Kyriakoglou
 Institute of Urban Research, Malmö University,
 Malmö, Sweden
myrto.dagkouli-kyriakoglou@mau.se

I love food, seeing new places and getting to know new things. I will not say travelling as this period is challenging for all and this opportunity seems really far away.

Hobbies

In order to fill the poster, I will display here my dearest comic character.

I come from Athens, Greece, where I lived for the biggest part of my life.

I have lived also in Italy, the Netherlands and now Sweden.

About me

My main research interests are housing, family and gender.

Therefore, in the (post-)pandemic era I would like to investigate the gender dimension of inter-generational care exchanges in connection to housing strategies

Research interests

Goals for SPA

- A better grasp on the methodologies of longitudinal studies
- Ways for data harmonization of cross-national longitudinal studies
- Opportunities to disseminate my findings for the public to be benefited
- 'Translate' the outcomes to various audiences
- Become aware about ethical and social issues
- Discover potential research opportunities in this field
- Build a professional interdisciplinary network

Methodology

I am more experienced with qualitative methods and ethnographic research: interviews, participant observation, action research

Current research

I am working as a Postdoc researcher on a project titled 'Public health, epidemics and urban planning: reinstating the connection' at IUR, Malmö University.

Moreover, I am structuring my ambitious project about gendered care obligations in the post-pandemic era

Studies

Bachelor in Management Science and Technology.

MSc in Environment and Development

MSc in Urban and Regional planning

Ph.D. in Urban Studies

Career path

Having completed my Ph.D. as well as my first personal postdoc project, I hope I will be able to secure funding for a more ambitious longitudinal project for four years.